Advancing Educational Achievement and Diversity in Education

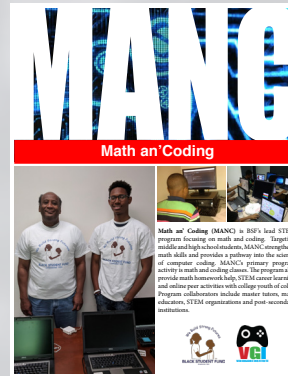

The Black Student Fund (BSF) provides essential advocacy, academic and retention support to academically motivated African American and other underserved students to facilitate their access, admission and successful matriculation and graduation from member schools. BSF partners with member schools to provide financial assistance, as well as instruction, evaluations, feedback and monitoring necessary to facilitate the creation and maintenance of a supportive and responsive environment.

What BSF Does

- BSF provides access to independent schools.
- BSF provides support to BSF Scholars and Families.
- BSF advances issues of diversity/inclusion at independent schools.
- BSF supports community partners with education programs.
- BSF informs the community about education issues.

Math an' Coding (MANC)

During the summer and academic year, Math an' Coding serves rising 5th graders to rising 10th graders. We teach the fundamentals of pre-algebra, algebra, geometry, and pre-calculus, with the goal of preparing 9th grade calculus students. We also teach computer coding featuring the coding language, Python. We work on math homework help with a healthy infusion of math fundamentals. In fact, in both cases, we work to strengthen each student's understanding of math fundamentals.

- BSF's MANC is led by BSF STEM Initiative Director Toussaint Tyson and operates with the guidance of two master educators Dr. Eddie Neal and Mr. Vern Williams. See Toussaint Tyson at ttyson@blackstudentfund.org.
- Dr. Eddie Neal: Founder and Principal of STEM focused mentoring and tutoring company, providing mathematics and science tutoring, test preparation and career mentoring to K-12 students in the Metropolitan Washington, DC area, and worldwide.
- BSF's MANC Peer Tutors include students from Drew University, The Ohio State University, McDaniel College, Morgan State University, and Yale University.
